

Farm shop wins best bangers prize

A MELTON farm shop scooped the prize for the best pork sausages at this year's Melton Fatstock Show.

Brockleby's Farm Shop, of Asfordby Hill, Melton Mowbray, won the Neil Smith Challenge Trophy for the best selection of pork sausages at the annual show, held at Melton Cattle Market.

The local farm shop had entered its Lincolnshire Pork Sausages for the competition, which are made from organic Saddleback pork raised by farmer Richard Mee, of Hathern, Leicestershire.

They were made to a special gluten-free recipe by Brockleby's butcher Nigel Swain.

Farm Shop owner Ian Jalland said: "The standards are always very high at this annual show so it's a real honour to win a trophy. It's a great event and we're delighted the judges loved our sausages. We are making special chipolata versions of them for Christmas, as they go really well with our free-range turkeys."

For further press information, contact Ian Jalland on 01664 813200.